Seal Drive Reminder Given Area

"Returns from this year's Christmas Seal Campaign show contributions are ahead of last year," according to Dr. Anthony J. Munoz, President of Central Virginia Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

"With all the pressures of Christmas and other holiday preparations, people sometimes forget their Christmas Seal contributions," said Dr. Munoz. "But your healthneeds are greater today than ever. Any reduction in our planned programs for next year would be a serious disservice to the residents of Amelia, Amherst, Appomattox, Buckingham, Campbell, Charlotte, Cumberland, Lunenburg, Nottoway, Powhatan, and Prince Edward counties, and the city of Lynchburg served by the Central Virginia Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

Approximately 236,000 reminders were mailed from the office of the Association recently. Mrs. Emma G. Anthony, Executive Director of the Association said, "This is a "thank you" to those who have sent in their contribution, and to those who have not, it is a reminder."

Most of us know that when we buy Christmas Seals we are not just buying pretty decorations for our holiday packages and cards. They make others feel better, too, for seals are still the main source of income for the TB Association which, year in – year out, wages the fight against pulmonary diseases. Dr. Munoz said, "Christmas Seal money works for us through education; making it possible to reach schools, colleges, civic groups, and the general public with facts about tuberculosis, respiratory diseases, and air pollution."

Christmas Seal money is used in the search for unknown cases of tuberculosis by working with local health departments upon request, in industrial surveys, and in tuberculin testing in schools. It is used to buy pajamas, robes, and slippers and to send monthly checks to indigent patients.

Campaign funds are also used to provide scholarships for nurses and to provide inhalation equipment to help indigent patients with respiratory problems breathe better at home after discharge from the hospital.

Mrs. Anthony said, "Our slogan – "There Is More To Do" – is very realistic in the area of respiratory disease, mainly because of the growth in the emphysema problem. Estimates of the number of Americans suffering in ome degree from chronic bronchitis, emphysema, and chronic lung conditions range from two million up to fourteen million."

"There is more to do," Dr. Munoz said. "We'll you answer your Christmas Seal letter today, if you have not already done so."

courses and/or student teaching credits than those holding the Collegiate professional and Postgraduate professional certificates. Normal Professional certificates are held by three teachers (teachers who have had at least two years of college work plus additional studies toward a degree) and a Vocational-Industrial certificate is held by one instructor.

Twenty-three instructors and supervisors have earned master's degrees – 20.2% of the staff as compared with 19 staff members last year. Eighty-seven staff members hold Bachelor's degrees or 76.3% of the staff as compared with last year's total of 84 or there are four more persons on the staff this year, 114 as compared with last year's 110.

This year there are only four teachers without degrees. Any instructor in the county public school system is required to continue his studies with college-credit courses in order to have his certificate renewed.

Mrs. McNeil (far left) came dressed for wintry weather. Junior Woman's Club members met Tuesday evening at the Court House to hear about the Appomattox Sheriff's Department, now known as the Bureau of Identification. Mrs. McNeil is a Child and Family Service Specialist in the Bureau. Brenda Harris (center) is a new member of Mrs. Edith Scruggs is chairman of the Welfare Department who presented the speaker with a gift. Mrs. McNeil told the club that many services are available to Appomattox residents besides purely monetary considerations. She mentioned adoption service, Medicaid and others.

e For Snowmen Again

Here it's a broom or stick that's a snowbound weatherman, but in the case of Phillip Seay's snowman (above) a gas seemed fitting enough for an Appomattox weatherman. Wednesday's (Nov. 24) pre-Thanksgiving snow fall as soon after the beginning of hunting season as was necessary even more timely. For Phillip, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peyton Seay of Road 727 south of the town limits and his cousin, Gary Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Campbell, who made a companion snowman on the adjacent yard, the Thanksgiving holidays disappeared as rapidly as the snow. By the way, both the snowman pictured are actually upright in the photo, but from the angle, a reader might wonder. Phillip, on Friday, when the weather warm enough to pose with only shortsleeves on – rather than heavy winter wear.

Goya Painting To Be Seen Around State

RICHMOND – An exhibition that has been termed the most important ever to be offered through the Virginia Museum's State Services department has begun circulating throughout the state.

"Los Caprichos," a print series by the Spanish artist Francisco Goya, is currently on display in Warrenton, sponsored by the Fauquier Chapter of the Virginia Museum.

The Museum purchased the print series to commemorate the recent gift of the magnificent Goya portrait of General Nicholas Guye, which was presented to the Museum by an anonymous donor. The print series, a first edition, was displayed briefly in the Museum's Theatre Gallery before beginning its statewide circulation.

Because of its role as the nation's first statewide arts system, the Museum makes every effort to share its collections with communities around the Commonwealth, through a unique system of Affiliates and Chapters. The "Los Caprichos" series was purchased specifically for distribution through the State Services department.

There are some 80 prints in the entire series, which stands as a marvelous example of Goya's skill as a printmaker as well as a biting commentary on Spanish life during the period. His satire and scathing denunciations, however, are applicable universally, irrespective of time or place.

The traveling exhibition consists of 40 prints, or one-half of the entire series, the same prints that were included in the Theatre Gallery display. The remainder of the series will be offered at a later date.

For their first exposure outside of Richmond, "Los Caprichos" were presented in Warrenton with an elegant blacktie reception. They will remain in view in that community through Dec. 8, at which time they will become available to the Museum's other 29 Affiliates and Chapters and other organizations throughout the state.

What About That Palm Tree?

Transco Club Meeting night, Tuesday, November 23 -- and almost everybody was there at Jeanne's for steak and a pre-holiday good time. Transco Club president is Toby Inge (standing, center background). Ask him to explain that palm tree in Appomattox! Outside it was getting colder, and by Wednesday morning there was Snow!
